Meetings in public space

Although our business was founded with the office in mind, the range has been developed to suit several different environments and purposes. Our room-in-room concept fits just as well in the open office landscape as in a library or larger entrance.

Universities, libraries, congress halls, entrances and other assembly halls all have the common challenge of furnishing a large room, usually with high ceilings and a lot of volume. Creating a good sound environment in these premises is therefore of the highest priority and this is done by placing textiles, sound absorbers, furniture and plants with more.

In addition to take control over the noise level, there is also a challenge of creating comfortable seating for different types of needs. In our latest inspiration magazine with the theme "The public space", we give you lots of inspiration for how we best decorate in the public environment.

Welcome to be inspired!

Create fun combinations with the components from The Hut Lounge Collection, made up of relaxed and stylish pieces.

In the Cabin, you can find the screened off and sound dampening feeling of a cabin in the woods. The walls are built with several panels, made of a wooden frame with 50 mm sound absorbents inside, dressed with foam laminated textile to create the optimum sound environment. With our adjustable feet, uneven floors can be compensated for. The house has no roof, but with the high walls, the ceiling in the room can be used in different ways instead. Combine with ceiling absorbent Nivå or why not suspend Sound Off with lamps from the ceiling for a two-in-one solution? The house is available in two sizes and the entrance consists of a glass door that smoothly slides into the wall on opening and is easily closed by its stainless steel handle.

WALL AND CEILING

A good sound environment has a direct connection to our wellbeing. We have sound absorbents that are designed to be mounted on the wall and ceiling and to suit all types of environments. Our absorbents are made of EcoSUND, a unique sound absorbing core material produced together with acousticians for optimal sound absorption. EcoSUND is available in several colours and our products can be chosen in their raw material, be dressed with textile, printed, cut into different shapes and customised to suit your needs.

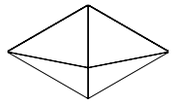

ROOM DIVIDERS

Several of our ceiling mounted absorbents also work as excellent room dividers.
They can be mounted on rails or directly in the grid to create rooms within the room, absorb sound and at the same time improve the decor with their colour and shape. Create zones where you combine the softer sound with the visual effect.

Moving Wall Tower is the tallest of the three versions and built with A30 screens for good noise absorption. The furniture is easily moved thanks to braking and lockable wheels. Tower has shelves on both short sides and in the middle of one long side - excellent for storage and design. On the top shelf in each end there is a cable grommet to draw cables inside the furniture, these can be exchanged for Power Grommet for easy access to electricity. There is an opening with a lid on top for access inside Tower. Tower, Bridge and Media are great in combination with each other.
